A little, at least. After all, when Tom Cruise plays the lead in a movie, you know his character's name. We get it; after all, we've seen Cruise play his iconic Agent Ethan Hunt in five "Mission: Impossible" movies. But "Mission: Impossible -- Fallout" as a whole is

Does anyone know what the problem is? thanks a lot A: Cannot render, please fix the view erro Q: Does RandomAccessFile.seek method do random-access at the beginning of the file? Does RandomAccessFile.seek method do random-access at the beginning of the file? A: No, RandomAccessFile.seek does not do random access at the beginning of the file. From RandomAccessFile.seek(long): Seeks to the specified byte offset from the beginning of the file. The specified file must be opened for reading. For an input stream, this means that the offset must be less than the file's current seek position. The offset must be specified as an integer in the range of the file's current seek position to one past the last byte of the file's data. Note that the seek position is not necessarily the start of the file. In order to read at some arbitrary index, you will have to read the file first, possibly into a buffer, and then seek within the buffer. Identification of a novel urea transporter gene, arginine transporters (ARTs), encoding an integral membrane protein. A novel class of urea transporters, arginine transporters (ARTs), has recently been identified from rat. Here we report the characterization of human and mouse ART genes encoding proteins with 85-88% identity and 66-84% similarity with rat ART1. Analyses of the multiple sequence alignment suggested that there were three principal regions within the sequence: an N-terminal, an extracellular loop, and a transmembrane domain. We isolated a human cDNA encoding ART, and the amino acid sequence deduced from this cDNA indicated the presence of a single transmembrane domain and a cytoplasmic amino terminal region. Homologues were also found in mouse, Xenopus, Drosophila, and
