We assessed the impact of a single radiofrequency ablation (RFA) on a patient's health status using an atrial fibrillation (AF) specific health-related quality of life (HRQL) scale. Patients with symptomatic drug-refractory AF and in sinus rhythm (SR) at 3 months post RFA were studied using the 15-item AF-specific HRQL scale with validated Chinese translations (AF-HRQL/C) and compared with a control group. Patients with AFHRQL/C scores 50 were considered unchanged or worse. One hundred and fifteen patients were recruited (mean age 66 ± 11 years, 77% male). A single RFA produced complete SR in all patients. Mean AF-HRQL/C scores pre and post RFA were 66.6 ± 18. c9d1549cdd

Description Familiars are spells you can assign to certain tasks, such as levelling up Champions, clicking the monsters, or using Ultimates. They serve as another mechanical spellcasting equivalent to Equilibrium. A familiar will use a number of clicks or per second. Lasts for 10 seconds. Cooldown is the number of seconds after use that a familiar is usable again. Every click or per second counts. Cooldown begins to reset when the familiar begins another task. Every time you use a familiar or an Ultimate, it's a new independent click/per second. So if you have 5 warlocks with familiars in your group, those 5 familiars may (and most likely will) be used differently by each of the warlocks. NOTE: Clans have the same cooldown - cooldown is the number of seconds after use that a familiar is usable again. A warlock with a Clans ally would therefore have a different cooldown then an allied warlock. You have to assign the Familiar to the task you wish to do. Use GMS to enable the Familiar on the character, not through the Instance Manager. This allows your Familiar to behave as it does in the video as if you are in the same state and are targeting the same champion you have equipped the Familiar to. The Familiar clicks the Champions you have assigned to it. Clicks the monsters you have assigned to it. Use your Move Spell to target the champions that the familiars will hit. Clicks the monsters you have assigned to it. It is important to note that if you want to target monsters with an Instance of Call Blizzard, you have to target it with an Instance of Call Blizzard. You can't target with your familiar if you haven't assigned the Familiar to hit a champion/monster with your Call Blizzard. This means you can not target your Familiar with Call Blizzard if you have a Clans summoner on the battlefield. You must target the Call Blizzard with a different method (if you can, otherwise use an Instant with an Equip (Move) command on the Call Blizzard) *Note: It is very unlikely that you can use your Call Blizzard for an assignment with your Familiar, however if you can think of a way, please let us know. You have to reassign the Familiar into the unknown with a touching love story in this unforgettable spinoff adventure from the mega-hit Roald Dahl books. Join Timothy for a thrilling ride through the darkest corners of the mind. Roald Dahl's beloved characters Blinky, Binky and Naughty return in this heart-wrenching fantasy and confession of unrequited love. Read more › Roald Dahl's The Witches is a fantasy novel, the first of the four books in a series titled the Witches.It was first published in 1983 by Jonathan Cape in London. Dahl wrote the book for young adults. The novel, not only tells the story of Inga and Ludo, but also has a major part in a love story between the characters. It takes place in a big city, where it is full of wickedness, but then decides to send a child into the world with them to be on their side and follow the witch; as the novel starts, Inga is the witch's new assistant and carries out a revenge mission to kill the Grand Vizier of the Middle Kingdom. However, when she falls in love with Ludo, she goes out of her plan. The story continues, and Inga and Ludo form a new family together with the child, but they are constantly threatened by spies from other realms. Here are the literary characteristics of The Witches. Poetic Elements The Witches has a great number of episodes and symbolism, and there are no typos in it. The symbolism is limitless; there are some scenes where the author uses the signs of the zodiac or the symbolism of the Chinese calendar. This helps to remind of the beliefs of the authors of the novel, and they reflect the whole life of the character. And most importantly, the author produces their own stylistics and symbolism that emphasizes the word of the supernatural. Some of the elements are ancient ritual chants, a typical sound of burning incense, Dragon's Blood, the smell of cats, and some of them are recreations that either speak of Pandora's Box or show an ancient boat that takes you to the sea of the souls of those who have died. The casting and staging are also noteworthy. There are some scenes with shadows and pointed lines, which stem from the Chinese influence and also the many paintings that are associated with Chinese inspiration. The scenery is also not wanting; the city has different settings (mostly the apartments of the house) that are unique by their own standards, so it is impossible to ignore them while reading.
