.Q: How to add another file having the same file extension to.gitignore I want to add a.exe file to.gitignore. But how to add another file having the same file extension to.gitignore? I also tried to add in index, but it does not work, echo "[GIT]" >> $(GIT_INDEX) git add $(wildcard *.exe) git commit -m "my commit" A: To add a file, remove its extension and add the extension back at the end. So your command becomes: echo "[GIT]" >> $(GIT_INDEX) git add *.exe git commit -m "my commit" You can even automate this with an alias by creating a shell function like this: function f(){ echo "[GIT]" >> $(GIT_INDEX) git add *.exe git commit -m "my commit" } This script will add your modified files, and commit to your repository. You can use this script from the command line like this: f You can also create shell aliases that are equivalent to this: alias f="f" Finally, you can add an alias for the entire function: alias g="f" A method for rapid enumeration of viable Salmonella on cellophane and plastic strips.
